

Burden and responsibility diverge, and the gap follows the map

Production-based emissions are what a country must retool; consumption-based are what its demand causes. Winners carry the smaller burden and the larger responsibility.

